

Justice Beyond The Trails End

Joshua Parker was raised on an Iowa farm, but he sought a life of adventure. Against his family's wishes, Joshua, at the age of seventeen, joined the Union Army and served as a sharpshooter in the war between the states. After the war, Joshua became a U.S. Marshal in the rugged Wyoming Territory, finding the adventure and danger he desired, and a love he cherished; but his lifestyle had a price...a price that could destroy him. Ride with Joshua Parker on his fascinating journey and you will never consider history dull again. Justice Beyond The Trails End is the second novel by Al Patrick. His first novel Silent Hawk is available in soft cover. Both novels are set in the old west, and offer: adventure, romance, humor, drama, and suspense that will stretch your emotion to newfound limits. The author, Al Patrick, the youngest of four children of Sam and Josie Patrick, was raised on a ranch in the South Boulder Valley in the shadow of Old Hollow Top Mountain of the Tobacco Root Mountain Range, southwest Montana. He attended grammar school in a small three-room schoolhouse in a small community of Cardwell that had fifty students in eight grades, and later graduated from Whitehall High School.
